A Message from AHW Director Jesse Ehrenfeld, MD, MPH

How AHW is navigating the COVID-19 pandemic and guidance for partners

Message from the Director

Dear colleagues,

In this time of unprecedented change and uncertainty, I am reaching out with warm wishes and to update you on AHW's response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

We are all feeling the effects of this crisis in all aspects of our lives. As we problem-solve issues in our own communities and react to disruptions to our normal work, this pandemic is also straining us in personal ways—many of us are stepping up as caretakers and teachers while our communities shut down. Know that we at AHW are here to support you during this difficult time. Please don't hesitate to reach out and let us know how you're doing.

As we navigate these coming weeks or months together, we will continue to provide updated guidance to support you and your work.

COVID-19 Resources

During this time, finding and sharing reliable and accurate information is critical. Stay up-to-date with information from trusted sources, such as:

- The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention COVID-19 resources
- American Medical Association's COVID-19 resource page for physicians
- Wisconsin Department of Health Services COVID-19 resources
- Medical College of Wisconsin's COVID-19 information page
- Mental Health America resource page

Event Updates

POSTPONED: Conversations with Scientists moved to Fall 2020

In keeping with guidelines from the Wisconsin Department of Health Services and the Medical College of Wisconsin for in-person events, we have decided to postpone the upcoming Conversations with Scientists learning series to a later date in fall 2020.

RECORDED: Creating Change for Good Workshop Series

The March 31 workshop was moved to an online format and recorded. We understand many of you are busy responding to the needs of your teams and communities, so we shortened the session to 90 minutes and will make a recording available for anyone who was not able to attend.
